Cherry Preschool Policy for Children with Allergies/Medical Conditions

THE ISSUE:

Our preschool has been faced with a growing population of children with allergies and/or medical conditions requiring special care and attention. Because parents are ultimately responsible for monitoring the food their children eat when the results could be serious, we must have you complete the forms appropriate for your child's situation. We all understand the importance of teaching children to manage dietary restrictions outside of the home. However, we are deeply concerned about teachers and other parents taking on this responsibility when the consequences could be serious or fatal.

A challenging aspect of this issue is to include the child with food restrictions to the greatest extent possible. It is reasonable for parents to expect their child can participate in snacks, cooking projects, parent-provided sharing season treats, and other classroom activities that involve food. Because you have indicated that this is a serious health issue for your child, we cannot safely rely on other parents to take responsibility for specialized birthday treats or holiday party contributions. We all understand it is safer and more appropriate for parents of children with food restrictions (rather than teachers or other parents) to read food labels and evaluate the appropriateness of food for their children.

BASIC POLICY:

The following distinction will be made in determining how to handle a child's food allergies:

1. If the parent does not return an Emergency Health Care Plan completed and signed by a doctor, the school assumes that allergy/medical condition is not life threatening or likely to result in a serious illness. In these cases:
 - The parent will provide substitute snacks to be kept in the classroom in the event the allergen is present in the class snack and alternate treats in the event of a birthday snack.
 - The parent is responsible for monitoring the child during class parties where food is served.
 - The allergen will not be banned from the classroom (with the exception of peanut products).
2. If the parent returns an Emergency Health Care Plan completed and signed by a doctor, the school assumes that the allergy/medical condition is life threatening or could result in serious illness, unless the doctor indicates otherwise. If the doctor indicates the allergy/medical condition is life threatening or could result in serious illness:
 - The parent must provide or approve (in writing) all food/snacks to be served to the child at school.
 - If the doctor has indicated that the allergic reaction can result from contact or proximity, the class will not have the allergen in the room including pets, art projects, cooking projects, sharing season projects/treats, and birthday snacks.
 - If the doctor indicates that the allergic reaction is only a result of ingestion, the parent will provide substitute snacks to be kept in the classroom in the event the allergen is present in the class snack and alternate treats in the event of a birthday snack.
 - The parent is responsible for monitoring the child during class parties where food is served.

ADDITIONAL POLICIES:

Projects (teacher or parent-led) involving food may not exclude a child with an allergy. Therefore, the teacher or parent leading the project must talk with the parent of the child with an allergy and come up with a mutually acceptable plan so that the child is not excluded from the activity.

The focus of a birthday celebration is the child having a birthday. Therefore, birthday treats do not have to accommodate a classmate's allergies or dietary restrictions. The child with allergies or dietary restrictions will be served a comparable snack provided by their parent.

For celebrations to which parents bring food to share (i.e. holiday & year-end parties), it is the responsibility of the parent of the child with the allergy to monitor their child's food consumption in order to ensure the child's safety.

Lunch policy: Lunch is an optional extra activity that is not considered to be part of the Cherry Preschool educational program by DFCS. Children whose food restrictions can be accommodated by seating at an allergen-free table may attend lunch and will be seated accordingly. Because our children's lunches come from home, we cannot guarantee they are free of allergens; therefore, children for whom separate seating is not enough should not attend lunch.

SCHOOL'S RESPONSIBILITY:

- Inform teachers of children in their class with allergies/medical conditions.
- Provide a copy of all forms to teachers.
- Inform parents of classmates of the presence of an allergy in the classroom.
- Have an emergency action plan in place in which the child's teachers and the office staff know where the child's medication is stored and how it is to be administered.
- Be sure several staff members are trained in CPR and be prepared to call upon them as needed.
- Enforce our "no trading food" policy at snack and lunch.
- Include children with allergies/medical conditions in all regular classroom activities, making reasonable accommodations to ensure their safety.

TEACHERS' RESPONSIBILITY:

- Post a list of all children with allergies.
- Eliminate the allergen from the classroom in the case of serious/life-threatening allergies.
- Collect and keep alternative snacks from the parent of the child with an allergy.
- Never serve a school provided snack food (including cooking projects) to a child with a serious/life-threatening allergy unless the parent has reviewed the ingredients and/or the food is on their parent-approved list.

PARENTS' RESPONSIBILITY:

- Inform the school of their child's allergy/medical condition in the child's history form and during the pre-visit.
- Complete the appropriate forms in the Children with Allergies and Medical Conditions Requiring Special Attention packet and return to the school:
 1. Parents' Form: Medical Conditions & Allergies Requiring Special Attention – must be completed for every child with a medical condition or allergy
 2. Medical Consent Form – must be completed for every child who may need medication administered at school. A separate form must be completed for each medication that may need to be administered.
 3. Emergency Health Care Plan – must be completed by child's physician for every child who has a serious/life-threatening allergy or medical condition.
- Provide alternate snacks to be kept at school in the event the school provided snack or a birthday snack contains an allergen and the allergy is not serious/life-threatening (no Emergency Health Care Plan on file).
- Review school snacks and provide teachers with a written list of snacks that may be served to their child.
- Provide all snacks to be served to their child if the child has serious/life-threatening allergies (Emergency Health Care Plan on file).
- Inform Cherry Preschool of any changes.
